

Business Plan 2019-20

Introduction

The Housing Ombudsman has a twin role to resolve disputes involving members of the Housing Ombudsman Scheme, including making awards of compensation or other remedies when appropriate, as well as to support effective landlord-tenant dispute resolution by others. The Housing Ombudsman Service does this on behalf of the Ombudsman. We deliver the former role by undertaking the fair and impartial investigation of complaints that have completed the landlord's complaints procedure. We deliver the latter role in two ways:

- by supporting landlords and residents to resolve individual complaints themselves within the landlord's complaint procedure
- by delivering a range of wider sector development and engagement training and tools aimed at improving complaint handling and housing services.

Our website sets out our process and provides more detail.

This business plan covers year one of our three year 'Making a Difference – on individual complaints and across the sector' strategy, set out in our 2019-22 corporate plan. Our corporate plan reflects the key demands of residents and landlords – faster and effective redress, hearing residents' voices and greater transparency.

The biggest challenge we face in delivering our ambitions over the next three years is the on-going rise in demand for our service – we have seen an average 17% year on year increase in demand for formal investigations since 2013-14. That is a significant increase in the most resource-intensive part of our process. To date, we have achieved substantial service improvements but we expect that the size of our formal caseload will continue to grow and further productivity gains will not be sufficient to enable us to deliver the level of service we all desire.

To tackle this issue, our year one activities are focussed on delivering a change programme that takes a two-pronged approach: first, we will review our operating models so that when a complaint comes to us, we deal with it in the most effective and efficient way possible; and secondly, we will review our strategy for supporting landlords to improve their complaints handling so they can resolve more complaints locally and, consequently, reduce the demand on our service.

We are keeping our subscription rate at £1.25 per housing unit for 2019-20 under our previous commitment to landlords and residents. As well as the charge to landlords, this represents the annual cost to each household for access to an Ombudsman service at any point in their complaint journey.

We will carefully monitor our progress over the year to ensure that we are 'making a difference'.
